A Complete "One Piece" Anime Guide

Syda Productions/Shutterstock So, you've ditched the cable company, but now you're stuck with a dozen streaming services and their rising prices. Fortunately, you can watch TV online for free. It just takes a little effort and a little patience. Streaming Services Are Getting Pricey If you hate paying for TV, then you've probably calculated the yearly price of services like Netflix or Hulu. As it turns out, a subscription to Netflix and Hulu will cost you more than $200 a year, and additional services will only bring that number higher. When you consider the current cost of streaming services, the yearly price hike of Netflix and Amazon Prime, and the addition of new services like Disney+, the future looks bleak—or at least expensive. We tend to think of these services as an escape from cable, yet they're starting to look a lot like cable companies. Is there an escape from streaming services? Luckily, you don't have to pay for Netflix or Hulu to get your online TV fix. There are plenty of ways to watch TV online for free, and some of them will make you wonder why anybody pays $12.99 a month for a streaming service subscription. Borrow Somebody's Login When it comes to account sharing, streaming services are pretty lax. In fact, most streaming services encourage account sharing, at least within a family, with separate user profiles and multi-user pricing plans. You ask a friend for their login info, add a profile to their account, and go to town. You can also borrow a friend or family member's cable login information to stream content directly from the websites of TV networks, like FOX or HBO. Some cable services, like DirecTV, even have their own streaming portals. It's crazy how a single username and password can bring you so much free content. Piggybacking on a friend or family member's streaming or cable subscription can save you a lot of money, but in the end, somebody's still paying that bill. If you're trying to ditch streaming services and the ghost of cable entirely, then you'll have to find a different path to the world of free TV. This may be against the terms of service for some streaming services, but others encourage you to share with family members. The Best Free Streaming Sites: Pluto TV and Crackle If you won't (or can't) borrow someone's login information, then you'll have to find free TV in the wild. Luckily, there are plenty of streaming websites that offer free content, and most of them have a handful of grade-A shows and movies. The most popular free streaming sites are Pluto TV, which offers over one hundred live channels showing movies and TV shows, and Sony's Crackle, which provides a variety of TV shows and movies for on-demand streaming. Pluto and Crackle have commercials, of course—but so does cable TV and you pay for that! You can watch these in your web browser, in a smartphone or tablet app, or even on your TV with a Roku or similar device. If these sites aren't doing it for you, then you should check out Tubi, Popcornflix, Share TV, and Yidio. You can also use services like YouTube to fuel your entertainment obsession, but you'll have a lot of trouble finding full episodes of TV shows. You can find a ton of other free streaming platforms on Google, but you should avoid streaming from any website that looks dubious. These websites are usually operated illegally, and they aren't always safe to use. Watch on a TV Network's Website If you're trying to watch a show from a specific network, then check their website. It sounds silly, but most sites will allow you to stream some (or all) episodes of a series for free. Lifetime, for example, allowed people to stream the R Kelly docuseries for free for a short time, and networks like Adult Swim routinely stream live TV for free. Need a list of networks that offer free content? Check out FOX, BET, CBS, AMC, ABC, The CW, Cartoon Network, and NBC. You can also stream free shows from public broadcasting networks, like PBS or the BBC (but you'll need a VPN to watch shows from the BBC because the service is exclusive to Europe). Dust Off Your Library Card As odd as it sounds, you can stream shows and movies from your local library. All you need is a library card and a website like OverDrive or Hoopla. Your public library is guaranteed to have a wide variety of shows and movies, enough that you may forget about streaming services entirely. And you can forget about that Disney+ subscription for a while because most libraries carry a decent selection of Disney films (well, the classic Disney films). If you're trying to save money, these websites are a lifesaver. You can use them to borrow digital copies of books, comics, music, and audiobooks from your public library. And don't worry, you may not even have to drive to a physical library to apply for a library card. Just Google the name of your local library card along with the word "apply." Your local library offers other free digital content, too, from eBooks and audiobooks to online newspapers. And, if you're willing to head to the library in person, you might find a nice selection of Blu-Rays, DVDs, and CDs you can borrow for free. RELATED: Not Just Books: All the Free Digital Stuff Your Local Library Might Offer Take Advantage of Free Trials Free streaming sites don't always have the shows that you want. Luckily, services like Netflix and Hulu usually offer a month-long free trial. These trials are useful when you know exactly what you want to watch, but you should think of them as a last resort. Free trials can only be used once (kind of), and you can end up with a bill at the end of the month if you forget to cancel your account. That being said, you can sometimes rig the free trial system to work forever. Most streaming services identify you by your email address and card information. By signing up for a free trial using different cards and email addresses, you can perpetually hang onto a free trial. Sadly, this method isn't just a test of your moral fortitude; it's also a little half-baked. Streaming services can verify your identity by checking your IP address or your credit card's mailing address, and they'll (justifiably) deny you a free trial if they smell anything fishy. Best Streaming Device Overall Best Budget Streaming Device Best Roku Streaming Device Anime fans have several options for where to watch One Piece online. Some methods require a subscription services, but if you don't mind reading subtitles, you can watch every episode of One Piece for free on the web. Information in this article applies to the 1999 anime franchise One Piece including all spin-off movies and TV specials. Availability of One Piece episodes may differ depending on your region, but you can likely find them for free on the following websites. Mary McLain / Liefewire Crunchyroll offers numerous apps that allow you to stream One Piece on your tablet, smartphone, smart TV, or gaming consoles. If you don't mind sitting through commercials, you can watch One Piece on Crunchyroll for free. Funnimation has 15 seasons of One Piece in addition to exclusive TV specials. Most episodes are only available in Japanese, but some are available in both languages. You can watch One Piece on Hulu in Japanese with English subtitles. Subscription plans to access the entire Hulu library of shows and movies start as low as $6.99 a month, but you can pay more to remove commercials. If you're a new user you can take advantage of its free trial. Hulu is also available to watch on gaming consoles, smartphones, and a variety of smart TVs. Students can get free access to Hulu via its partnership with Spotify. If you prefer to own digital copies of your favorite episodes that can be viewed offline, you can buy them from services like Amazon Prime Video, Apple's iTunes Store, and Microsoft Movies & TV. Dutton fans may have to wait until the fall before they can enjoy another season of ranching drama, but in the meantime, it's about to get easier to get your Yellowstone fix. The fourth season of the hit Paramount Network show is finally about to become available for streaming. Whether you're looking for a refresher on all of the dangerous goings-on or just want to find out what all the hubbub is about, here's everything you need to know to get caught up on the ranching drama Yellowstone.StreamingWhile Yellowstone isn't currently on Netflix or Hulu, all four seasons are now available to stream on Peacock. The seasons are also available for purchase season 1-4 through Amazon Prime (unfortunately, the show is not currently free to Prime members.) Despite what you might assume, given that the show airs on the Paramount Network, it is not currently available through the Paramount+ streaming service, though the hit prequel show 1883 can be found there, as well as the recently announced Dutton origin story 1932. Sign up for PeacockKevin Costner and Kelly Reilly play the father-daughter pair John and Beth Dutton on Yellowstone.Danno NellWhat's Yellowstone about? The show follows the trials and tribulations of the Duttons, a family of ranchers operating the the largest contiguous ranch in the U.S. But you don't reach the Duttons' level of wealth and success by playing nice; not out where the west is still wild. The family is constantly attending to conflicts from the outside—including land developers, political opponents, and clashes with the local reservation—as well as from within, as the complicated dynamics between the family patriarch John (played by Kevin Costner) and his children—frustrated, ambitious Jamie (Wes Bentley), deliciously vicious Beth (Kelly Reilly), and rugged former soldier Kayce (Luke Grimes)—play out with plenty of scheming, secrets, and no little bit of bloodshed. When will season 5 debut? Though the massive success of Yellowstone and the ever expanding Yellowstone universe—it now has it's prequel 1883, another prequel, set during the Great Depression, titled 1932, an in-the-works spinoff set on the 6666 ranch in Texas, which will stream through Paramount+—would make it shocking for the show not to get picked up for additional seasons, it took months for the network to announce whether the show would be returning. Fortunately for fans, though, in February 2022, they did indeed reveal that a new season is in the works, and is likely to begin production this spring.
